Thirst. by Mary Oliver Original Language English. Another morning and I wake with thirst for the goodness I do not have. I walk out to the pond and all the way God has given us such beautiful lessons. Oh Lord, I was never a quick scholar but sulked and hunched over my books past the hour and the bell; grant me, in your mercy, a little more time. Love for the

This is the first book of Mary Oliver's poems I've read and have bought some others as a result. Her words transported me to moments of real depth and honesty. I found my 'thirsty soul' moved and refreshed by such poems as 'The Place I Want To Get Back To' and 'When I Am Among The Trees'. A book to read and return to!

“Thirst” by Mary Oliver - Words ... - Words for the Year

Mary Oliver: "Messenger", "Thirst" "The Uses of Sorrow" from Thirst (2006) Mary Oliver is one of my favorite poets. I love her writing about nature and insights on everyday life. My favorite Oliver poem is "Such Singing in the Wild Branches" (2003) selected for this Anthology. The three poems below are from her recent book Thirst (2006). The first poem "Messenger" defines Mary Oliver's work as a poet, her love for this world and its celebratory message and positive outlook on life.

Praying - a poem by Mary Oliver - becoming flame

Mary Jane Oliver was an American poet who won the National Book Award and the Pulitzer Prize. Her work is inspired by nature, rather than the human world, stemming from her lifelong passion for solitary walks in the wild. It is characterised by a sincere wonderment at the impact of natural imagery, conveyed in unadorned language. In 2007 she was declared to be the country's best-selling poet.
